

Dallas County Community College District
DCCCD Green Team

CHARTER

Effective August 31, 2009 (revised September 2010)

CONTEXT : The Board of Trustees vision for DCCCD is to “add value to lives and build sustainable community.” To achieve this vision of sustainability at all levels (social, environmental, and economic), DCCCD must make changes in the way we do business. In a large, complex organization like DCCCD, change takes time, communication, coordination and collaboration. Currently, location sustainability initiatives vary, from recycling to green building to controlled emissions. The DCCCD Green Team will facilitate collaboration and sharing among the locations that will strengthen our efforts and enable us to identify and overcome common challenges on our journey toward sustainability. Additionally, they will seek and recommend cost-cutting and revenue producing ideas related to sustainability for district-wide adoption.

PURPOSE:

The DCCCD Green Team is authorized by Ed DesPlas and/or Justin Lonon to:

- Research, identify and recommend sustainability policies/procedures for adoption at the district level
- Share best practices among locations
- Promote intra-district collaboration on sustainability projects
- Sponsor/support educational events for employees and students
- Promote consistent measurement techniques across the district to support reporting and evaluation goals
- Use the Association for the Advancement of Sustainability in Higher Education (AASHE) Sustainability Tracking and Assessment Rating System (STARS) as our guide. (See STARS Summary Scorecard for a quick overview.)
