As a regionally accredited online university, Capella University provides working adults an opportunity to move forward without leaving the rest of their life behind. We offer high-caliber graduate degree programs in higher education, P—12 education, business, information technology, health care, mental health, and public safety, as well as undergraduate degree programs in business, information technology, and public safety.

An education from Capella offers substantial advantages to graduates, faculty, and staff of academic institutions in our higher education alliances. Capella has education alliances with more than 200 community colleges and extends a number of benefits to their faculty, staff, and graduates, including special tuition reductions. Whether you are a student making the transition to a four-year degree program or a college faculty or staff member seeking a graduate degree, if your college or university has an alliance with Capella University, you benefit.
