Programming Notes: To expedite programming, college was based on stu.current.home.location and age was determined using an adjusted stu.age rather than actual month/day comparison to start date of fall semester. Ages greater than 100 (likely due to input birth date error) were excluded. Counts will differ slightly if location is determined by section number and student age recalculated based on fall start dates. Students enrolled in both credit and continuing education courses are counted in each area.

The tables below show the number of DCCCD students that are age 65 and older. Such students enrolling in credit instruction may be eligible for the following waiver: *“If a senior citizen (person 65 years or older) who resides in or owns property subject to ad valorem taxation in Dallas County enrolls in credit courses, DCCCD colleges will waive a maximum of six hours tuition each semester or summer session if space is available.
